GERMAN REVOLT COMPLETE

President's Political Offensive Is Characterized As Comparable to Military Successes of Marshal Foch---Armistice May Bc Modified to Put German Ships at Work.

> BY FRED S. FERGUSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Nov. 12.—An early peace conference is not expected, as it will take time for the Allies to stabilize and confederate the baby democracies rising from the wreck of the Hohenzollern-Hapsburg

Although none of the Allied conferees can be quoted, privately they laud President Wilson's political offensive, characterizing it as comparale to Foch's military successes.

The impression is widespread that Wilson will play a most imporant role in the democratization of the European nations whose aspirations he has godfathered.

> BY ROBERT J. BENDER (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.-America and the Allied nations now face the great problem of rebellion in Germany and the spread of Bolshevism throughout Europe.

President Wilson, in his address to Congress announcing the armisice terms, made a direct appeal to the German people to strive quickly. to gain self-control of their present situation. Countering this Doctor Solf, the German foreign secretary, has sent the President an appeal to soften the conditions imposed upon Germany by her enemies to assist the new German government in preventing rebellion.

One modification in the armistice terms is believed likely in the matter of freeing German ships now idle in their harbors.

The armistice terms would make these subject to seizure, but Presilent Wilson has suggested "presently" they should be made available for carrying needed food supplies to the Central Empires.

LONDON, Nov. 12.-A complete revolution throughout all of Germany has practically been achieved with but little bloodshed, it was indicated today by rapidly increasing evidence.

The workmen's and soldiers' committees are in control of nearly every important city.

The latest reported abdications are the grand dukes of Mecklenburg and Saxe-Weimar. Of twenty thrones, ten have been abandoned. The remaining ten states are practically in the process of forming new governments.

BERLIN (via London), Nov. 12.—The German government has requested the United States to arrange for the opening of peace negotiations. The government is anxious to begin negotiations immediately because of a threatened famine.

LONDON Nov. 12.-The German wireless has recommended that German merchantships run for the nearest ports.

By the terms of the armistice the Allied blockade is still in effect and all German merchant vessels at sea By United Press. will be seized. The wireless probably refers chiefly to the Baltic and Black
